Zonk

(Idea from CEF Press)

To prepare the game, cut out the smiley faces and point squares. Glue one point square on the back of each smiley face and cover them with clear contact paper. Put flannel or a magnet on the back of each one, or place them on a table, smiley side up.

To play the game, put the nine smiley faces on the flannelboard or magnetic white board. Divide the class into two teams. Ask a review question from your lesson. The child who stands first and gives the correct answer gets to come and turn over one smiley face. If it is points, he wins this amount of points for his team and can stop, or he may choose to try again. He can continue to do this as long as he turns over points, but if he gets a “zonk,” he loses all of the points from his turn and must sit down. Ask another question, and continue until your review time is finished. Add the points for each team and tell the class which team is the winner.
